A diagram of a beam of length $L$ with a point load $F_P$ applied at the center. The beam is supported by two vertical supports at the ends. The load is represented by a downward arrow labeled $F_P$.

A schematic diagram of a beam of length l supported at both ends. A downward point load F_P is applied at the center of the beam. The beam is divided into two equal segments of length $l/2$ by the point of application of the load.

A schematic diagram of a beam of length $L$ with a point load $F_P$ applied at its center. The beam is supported by a fixed support on the left and a roller support on the right. The beam is divided into two equal segments of length $L/2$ by the point load. The diagram shows the beam's profile with a dashed line indicating the undeformed state and a solid line indicating the deformed state under the load.

Floor plan of the living area. The living room is labeled "LIVING" and is located at the front of the house. It is adjacent to a dining area and a kitchen. The kitchen is located at the back of the house and includes a sink, stove, and refrigerator. The dining area is located between the living room and the kitchen. The living room has a fireplace and a large window. The dining area has a table and chairs. The kitchen has a counter and cabinets. The floor plan also shows a hallway leading to the bedrooms and a bathroom.

Floor plan of Bath 2. The room contains a toilet, a bathtub, and a shower area. The text "BATH 2" is centered in the room.

A diagram of a dining area. It features a central rectangular table labeled "DINING". Six chairs are arranged around the table: three along the top edge and three along the bottom edge. Each chair is represented by a small rectangle with a horizontal line across its middle.

FP

A/C LEDGE

The diagram shows a three-phase motor with a star connection. It consists of three circular windings arranged in a triangle. The outer terminals are connected to a three-phase supply. The inner terminals are connected to a common star point, represented by a central dot with three lines radiating from it.

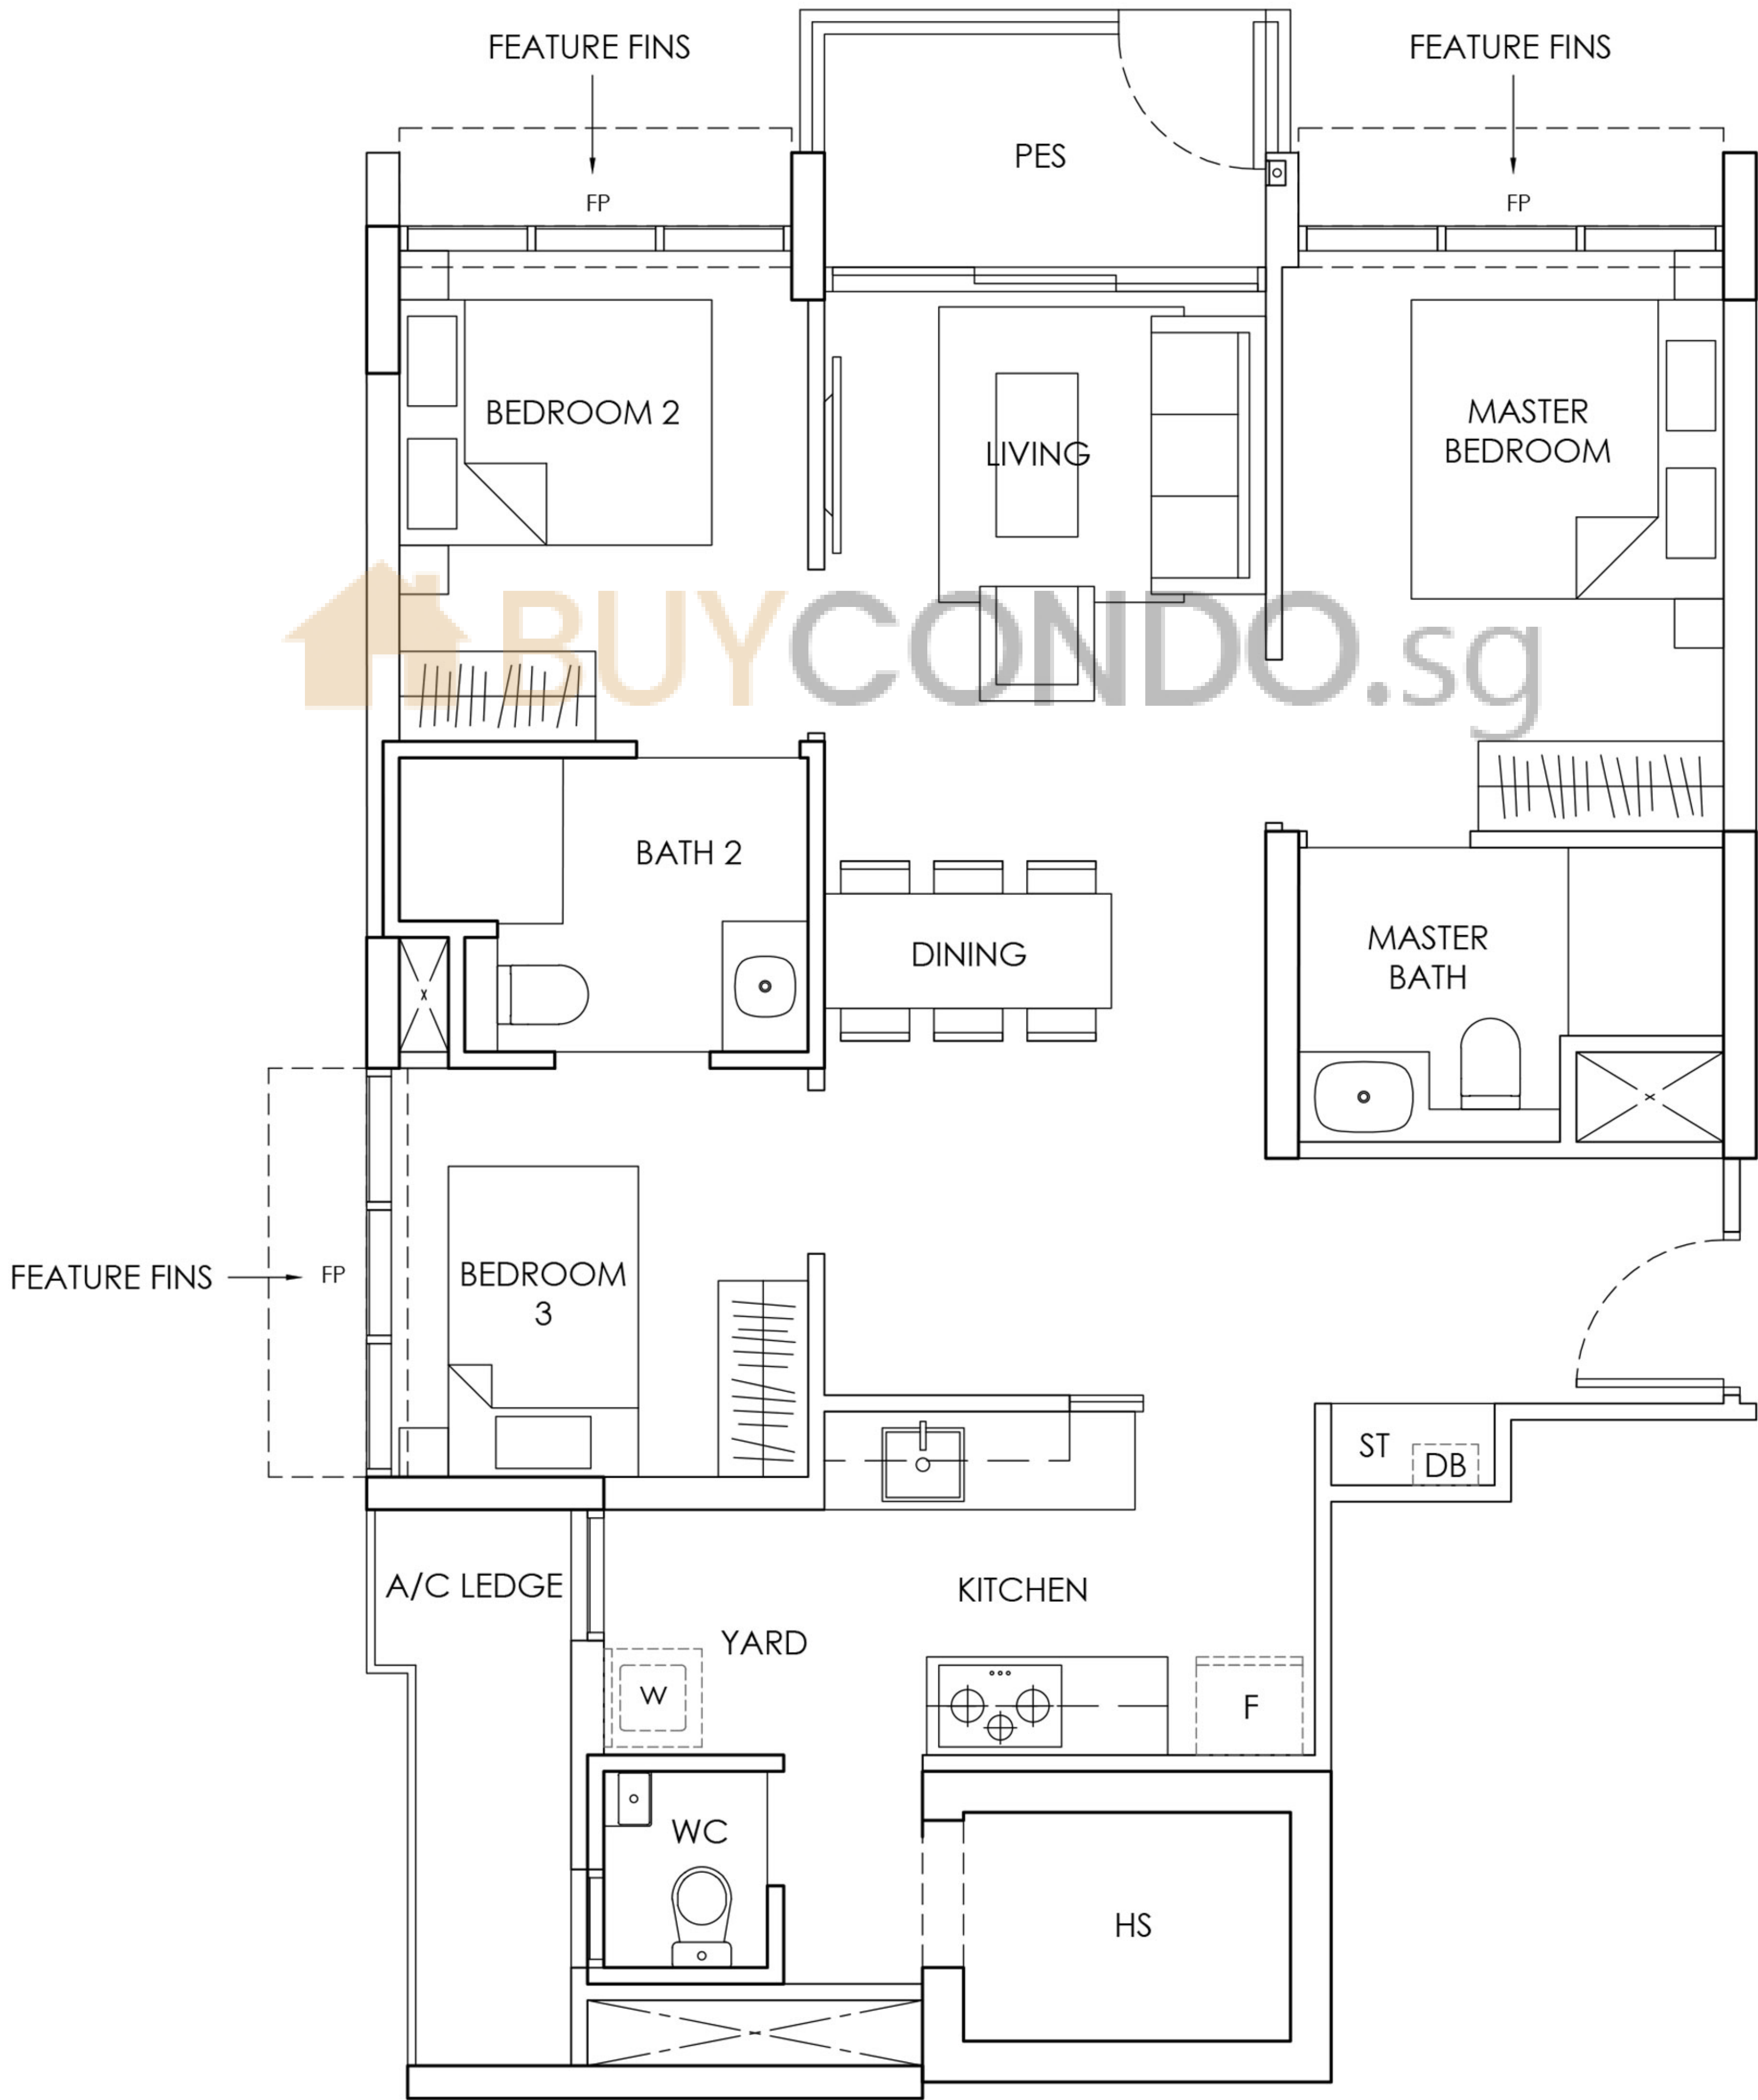

Diagram of a horizontal section of a building showing a room labeled "HS" (Hauptsaal). A dashed line indicates a wall or partition.
